Café Variations was originally developed and produced by ArtsEmerson: The World On Stage, Emerson Stage, and SITI Company at Emerson College, Boston, MA.

Café Variations was made possible with funding by the New England Foundation for the Arts' National Theater Pilot, with lead funding from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. Additional support provided by the National Endowment for the Arts.

Café Variations

Director's Note

The creation of Café Variations is a story of inspiration, influence and development and, in the same way as the play, unfolds in a process of theme and variations. I had been thinking about a project for SITI Company that would interweave scenes from many of Charles Mee's plays that happen in cafés. One of Mee's recurring themes is the philosopher Heidegger's notion that we become who we are through our relationships to other people and to the environment. I imagined that a café environment would be a perfect world for this investigation. It was clear to me that music and dance would play a key role in the project. And then came the chance to work with the music of George and Ira Gershwin. Wonderful! What you are seeing tonight is the second phase of Café Variations. The first was a full-blown musical with a large live band, a cast of thirty and songs and music from the Gershwin catalogue. The project has been evolving ever since into its next manifestation: a six-actor dance/theater piece featuring SITI Company that we are excited to share with you now.

About SITI COMPANY

SITI Company was built on the bedrock of ensemble. We believe that through the practice of collaboration, a group of artists working together over time can have a significant impact upon both contemporary theater and the world at large.

Through our performances, educational programs, and collaborations with other artists and thinkers, SITI Company will continue to challenge the status quo, train to achieve artistic excellence in every aspect of our work, and offer new ways of seeing and of being as both artists and as global citizens.

SITI Company is committed to providing a gymnasium-for-the-soul where the interaction of art, artists, audiences and ideas inspire the possibility for change, optimism and hope.

Founded in 1992 by Anne Bogart and Tadashi Suzuki, SITI Company began as an agreement to redefine and revitalize contemporary theater in the United States through an emphasis on international cultural exchange and collaboration. Originally envisioned as a summer institute in Saratoga Springs, New York, SITI expanded to encompass a year-round company based in

New York City with a summer season in Saratoga. The Company is known nationally and internationally as a top-level artistic collective that generates groundbreaking theater while also training artists from around the world.

In addition to Artistic Director, Anne Bogart, SITI Company is comprised of ten actors, four designers, a playwright and an executive director. The company represents a change in thinking about the relationships between artists and institutions. SITI Company has formed relationships with theaters and venues around the world who present the Company's work. Find out more at siti.org.

About UW World Series

The UW World Series is one of Seattle's leading performing arts organizations, presenting innovative, provocative and diverse international artists in music, theater, and dance. More than 450 visiting artists from around the world have performed as part of the UWWS. The eclectic mix of programming has given Northwest audiences a broad view of the world of performing arts, from sampling unique cultural traditions to experiencing innovative new works that expand the scope and direction of contemporary performing arts. The UW World Series' mission includes supporting the educational goals of the University of Washington by providing extensive arts learning opportunities for UW students and faculty, area school children and teachers, and members of the community at large.

About the Studio Series

The UW World Series' 2013-14 Studio Series showcases emerging and influential artists in dance, music, and theater. In addition to SITI Company, the Studio Series features new music ensemble Jack Quartet and San Francisco dance company, Robert Moses' Kin. The latter events will take place in the 238-seat Meany Studio Theatre.

As a program of the University of Washington, UW World Series is uniquely positioned on the boundary between campus and community life. The Studio Series is designed to enrich the community's cultural offerings through University of Washington partnerships and provide interactive educational opportunities for students through lectures, workshops, master classes, and residencies.

About the UW School of Drama

The University of Washington School of Drama celebrates, develops, and prepares for employment the 21st-century artist through innovative education, practical application and connection to the world of performing art. Its award-winning, interdisciplinary faculty is dedicated to enabling each artist to reach their creative potential and its alumni are advancing the artistic conversation through innovative and diverse work both regionally and across the globe.
