Jitney*, one of the plays in August Wilson's series focusing on the experiences of African Americans in the 20th century, opens Wednesday, March 6, and continues through the end of the month at the Curran Theatre, 445 Geary. The uneasy relationship of a father, who runs an unlicensed cab company, and his son, who has served time in prison, is at the center of the drama. (512-7770)

Fort Mason's Magic Theatre and the New York-based SITA company will present Room and Bob, a pair of plays profiling author Virginia Woolf and avant-garde director Robert Wilson, respectively. Room runs Wednesday through Sunday, March 6-17; Bob follows, Wednesday through Sunday, March 20-31. Obie-winning Anne Bogart directs. (41-8822; www.magictheatre.org)
