ROOM

March 12-27, 2011

Based on the writings of Virginia Woolf

Directed by Anne Bogart

Adapted by Jocelyn Clark

Harvested from a lifetime of Virginia Woolf's writing, Room traces the movement of a creative spirit in exquisite crisis, an artist in a pressure cooker of articulation who seeks room to move, room to breathe, and room to imagine.

"A theatrical representation of the writer's mind, an abstraction painted with theater's animated tools." – The New York Times

"Watching Lauren climb the walls of Neil Patel's terrifyingly empty set leaves one images, both haunting and heroic, of a great mind abandoned to itself — free and unmoored, equally." – Critic's Pick, New York Magazine

"Fans of Woolf and adventurous dance/theater shouldn't hesitate to head to this production by Women's Project and SITI Company!" – Huffington Post
